

Regulatory news & analysis you can count on

Capitalize on market opportunities

At The Capitol Forum, our team of investigative reporters uncover, report on and analyze government agency investigations and regulatory developments likely to impact financial markets.

Identify business practices and policies impacting companies

Our work identifies publicly traded companies with business practices which may face legal or regulatory risks, industries which may be materially impacted by new regulations from the state or federal agencies, or changes in regulatory enforcement—enabling our readers to capitalize on market opportunities or minimize portfolio risk. Our journalists understand the impact regulatory agency actions can have on financial markets and provide insights on the potential results of regulatory actions, whether they include fines or material changes to a company's business or an industry's operation.

Trusted partner for breaking news and in-depth analysis

You can rely on us for breaking, non-biased insights on investigations and regulatory developments impacting companies.

As an independent media company not affiliated with an investment bank, broker dealer, or independent research provider, we are truly agnostic from the investment process and do not take positions in equity markets. Our focus is on providing accurate reporting that is predictive in nature and helps investors identify situations where risk is either under or over-valued.

Subscription Benefits:

- Access to our library of thousands of investigative reports and breaking news published since our inception
- Invitations to conference calls and events with industry and policy experts on a weekly basis
- Real-time, email alerts when new articles and reports are published
